

NOVEMBER HAPPENINGS

THIS MONTH, WE'RE HIGHLIGHTING THE GENEROUS DONORS OF PRIME EVENTS IN TOWN!

Co-sponsor Nicholas Paylavias, event chair Sherree Goldstein, honorary chair Michael Lotereno, and event chair Mary Prezioso at Sunflower POWER, held at PerLora. The event featured delights from Altus and Square Café; and pillows, inspired by the beauty and resilience of women, designed by local artists for auction.

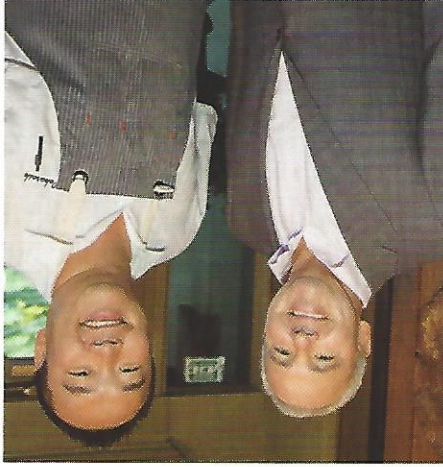

Sarah York-Rubin, Richard Raub, Tom Cangiano, and Henry and Elsie Hillman celebrated the 10th anniversary of Shady Side Academy's Hillman Center for Performing Arts at its showcase event, which included performances and an ice cream reception.

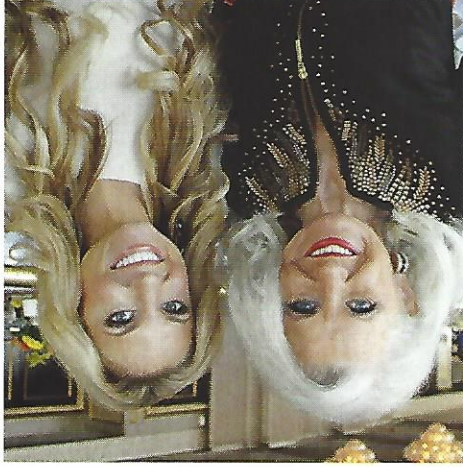

Donna Paszek, Nancy Roderick, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, and Arleen Stehler at the Block House 250 Gala, held at the Wyncham Grand Pittsburgh Downtown. Biographer and historian Nixon Eisenhower served as the keynote speaker at the event, which honored the 250th anniversary of the Fort Pitt Block House.

Anne Degre and Amy Scarvati at Aestique's Girls Night Out, an evening of women's health, fitness, and beauty. The event featured Q-and-A sessions with board-certified plastic surgeons, as well as cocktails, hors d'oeuvres, and sweets.

Owners Rick Stern and Brian Pekarcik celebrated the grand reopening of Willow in the North Hills. The famed restaurant and events space underwent renovations to both the interior and exterior of the building, and the menu has been redesigned to provide patrons with everyday gourmet dining options.

Co-chair Sandy Betton and country singer Julie Roberts at the Women on the Move Luncheon, held at LeMont Restaurant. Roberts performed and shared the story of her diagnosis with MS at age 27.
